

Tropical North Queensland in Australia has world-class education and training providers with the capability to deliver offshore, and a genuine desire to share their tropical expertise with our Asia-Pacific neighbours.

Tropical North Queensland providers offer innovative, customised training products and services which deliver education solutions that meet the needs of employers, businesses and organisations.

Queensland's education and training system has an extensive network of public and privately-owned training providers, who currently deliver these services offshore into the Asia-Pacific region.

Why choose North Queensland?

- ✓ Providers have unique tropical expertise enabling them to deliver education and training specifically tailored to overcome the challenges of tropical conditions experienced throughout the Asia-Pacific region
- ✓ Experience working in remote or isolated locations
- ✓ Experience teaching students in environments with limited resources and/or basic facilities
- ✓ Experience delivering courses to low-literacy groups
- ✓ Experience working with Indigenous people and in culturally diverse environments
- ✓ Close proximity and direct flights across Asia-Pacific region enables quick response time.

Tropical North Queensland providers have strong links and established relationships with international clients, particularly in the Asia-Pacific region. These established partnerships ensure providers can package solutions tailored to the needs of business.

Tropical North Queensland education and training providers have the ability to organise collaborative tender arrangements for the larger or more complex client requirements. The number and diversity of education and training providers across Tropical North Queensland is impressive and Troplinks can help you access them. In particular, TropLinks can facilitate consortium arrangements and assist with business matching when requested.

Tropical North Queensland providers have experience working with students and clients sometimes located in remote and difficult-to-access areas similar to those in many surrounding tropical countries. Tropical North Queensland is Australia's stepping-off point to the Asia-Pacific region and our providers can offer responsive service times and attend to unforeseen circumstances that may arise during the life-cycle of the project due to our proximity and regular air-service linkages.
